

The City of St. Louis

a community that grows with trees!

The City of St. Louis is home to approximately 120,000 street and park trees. Many more additional trees are also found on private property. Together all of these trees form a community forest that provides environmental, social and economical benefits to all of us. St. Louis's community forest is an integral part of its parks, residential neighborhoods and commercial districts. You can assist the Forestry Division in its continual efforts to preserve and enhance the City's community forest by supporting and participating in community forestry activities such as tree planting and tree care. Help us to continue to make St. Louis a community that grows with trees.

For more information about community forestry programs and services offered by the Forestry Division call 314-613-7200 or visit us on line at:

www.stlouis.missouri.org/citygov/parks/

Financial Assistance for the distribution of this poster provided by The Missouri Department of Conservation

City of St. Louis Forestry Division
Community Forestry Education and Outreach
Poster Prepared By: Jamie Frank - March 19, 2003
Pictures: J. Frank